The students are well behaved, awake, and express the qualities of morality, alertness, compassion, gentleness, politeness, and respect to each other, in a very appropriate way. They are also intelligent, vigilant, and live a proper way of life.

The students express their comprehension and profound understanding in a very positive way. They gain knowledge about the reality of life. They express the happiness that comes from the fulfillment of the intellectual understanding of the knowledge.

The atmosphere in the class is filled with warmth. Students pay full attention and are fulfilled with the knowledge they study. There is no stress or strain.

It was such a good opportunity for me to witness the class and gain more knowledge. I was so impressed, and felt peaceful, serene, and blissful in participating in the class every day.
